Bonifacio High Street's hottest night spot is on top of a hotel
Seda's rooftop bar offers a unique, bird's eye view experience

At Straight Up, the roof deck bar of Seda Bonifacio Global City hotel, the evolving cityscape is part of the main attraction, together with cool cocktails and great music.

To the West is a park flanked by boutiques and the restaurants of Bonifacio High Street. To the East are the vibrant and diverse residential communities of the city and Laguna de Bay. The perspective from Straight Up reveals new landmarks that have infused new vibrancy to the new business district that encourages a live-work-play environment.

Guests have a choice of Straight Up's indoor or outdoor areas, and if so desired a private room for up to 30 persons. They can linger over drinks and international tapas while watching the colors change over the horizon. Aural entertainment is likewise sophisticated, courtesy of renowned DJ Cocoy Puyat who is known for mixes of current house hits and skillful remakes of familiar tunes. Soulful, cutting-edge music is very much a part of the Straight Up experience.

The newest night spot in Manila, Straight Up also invites guests to explore the rest of Seda BGC. The urban lifestyle hotel is the flagship in a series of Seda properties owned and managed by Ayala Hotels and Resorts Corporation, offering the advantages of location, excellent service and great value.
